DupScout is an intelligent application that assists you in locating and deleting duplicate files on your computer, external drives, and in your network devices. It has a simplistic interface, will scan your folders or entire storage systems, and will determine which files are present more than once so that you can free up space and keep things orderly. It can be used on a local disk as well as on a network share, NAS device, and even on a large enterprise storage system.

When duplicates are detected, DupScout provides you with a variety of methods for cleaning them up. You may remove the duplicate copies, transfer them to a different folder, compress or substitute them with links so that your storage is well organized without necessarily losing access to the information. The tool also gives you a preview before anything is removed or altered, and thus you are able to determine the files that you really need or the ones that you would do away with.

DupScout is also easy to use when learning about your storage usage, displaying duplicate counts and color pie charts sorted by file type or extension, user, or date. It facilitates comprehensive reports, sending findings to SQL databases, and searching networks in totality in search of duplicates. DupScout is a fully and effectively implemented workflow to control duplicate files, whether you are a home user or have a number of devices in the business.
