Start your journey into animation with this fun, easy course!

Hongshu Guo, a motion designer living in Toronto, Canada, has a keen interest in animation. He is one of the most prestigious Skillshare Instructors, he's taught hundreds of students the same path started him over six years ago: the path toward professional motion graphics and satisfaction for oneself. The Skillshare Live event, which was recorded on Zoom and with the participation of members who are part of this Skillshare team, Hongshu will teach you how to take your journey into motion graphics, and also enjoy the process!

Everybody has to begin at some point, and this course begins with a brief introduction to Motion Graphics 101, where Hongshu makes sure that students are well-versed in the basics. In the next session, he will show you how to use Adobe After Effects to enhance your skills in illustration. At the end of the course, you'll be able to create a GIF animation with the help of a partner! Though it was developed for beginners, there's plenty for everyone to enjoy this fun and informative course.
