What is Presets for Lightroom – Retro Exposure?

"Retro Exposure" is a pre-configured setting in Adobe Lightroom, a widely used software for editing and managing photos. Presets like this are predetermined adjustments that can be instantly applied to photos to achieve specific styles or appearances. In the case of "Retro Exposure," it likely alters the image to resemble vintage or retro photographs, emphasizing warm tones, film-like grain, and possibly vignetting or other effects reminiscent of older photography styles. Photographers commonly use presets to quickly apply a cohesive aesthetic to their images or to explore different visual possibilities.
