Snap! Is an add-on that lets you set snap-points for objects and offers an users with an easy-to-use and interactive method to snap objects together.

Snapping an object to another will place it at the snap-point chosen and then align the object in so that its orientation is similar to the snap-point of that other object.

This allows you to apply sensible snap-points to objects within the modular asset pack, for instance. If in the future, this set of objects is added to your project, you are able to quickly align and place them.

Personal

The complete add-on and instruction instructions. Allows you to add snap-points to any object, and offers an easy way to snap. There are no restrictions on personal use, however, it is not permitted to redistribute it.

Redistributable

This version is designed for developers of asset packs that reuse and would like to enhance their portfolios by using snap-points, and then distribute the Snap! add-on with their product.

The add-on is similar to that of the Personal edition, however, you can bundle the add-on as well as its user manual with the product.

There aren't any recurring charges You purchase the Redistributable license once and then you can bundle it in your bundles of assets as would like. The Redistributable license cannot be transferable. In the event that you package snap! together with an asset pack, the customer (who gets the add-on with the product) gets a personal license. They are not allowed to distribute the software.

The creator has a note regarding the licenses

There are no technical restrictions that are in place, so there is no reason to stop you from using the add-on. However, I have spent many hours creating and testing this add-on. I am confident that an artist or creator who is creating, for example, an excellent modular asset pack wishes to bundle Snap! with their asset pack Snap! add-on with their asset pack will respect my faith and purchase the redistributable license.

Its cost is reasonable, I'd say and it's a once only, regardless of the number of copies of your product you are selling, as I'm not a believer in monthly fees or subscriptions: If you develop something that is sold out in hundreds of copies, and you snap!
