- A preview thumbnail renders
- When editing, All affected nodes will be automatically changed.
- Previews are rendered using the background to keep Blender's interface fluid and flexible.
- There are no changes made to the .blend. Others without the addon will still be able to access your scenes without issues.
- High-resolution displays can be supported (works using Blender's resolution scaling feature)
- Caveats
- To display previews of images that are packed to show previews for packed images, the .blend file needs to be first saved to disk as they load by linking to the .blend file.
- The thumbnails of image sequences do not update with every change in frames.
- IES nodes are, at present, not supported at the moment.
