Three Steps:

- Look through the boxes to find the weather particle you would like to include in your system of particles (Choose from hail, rain, or snow).
- Please name your particle system.
- Include the weather system in your scene.

Once the weather system is installed, you are able to set more specific settings and bake the system's movement inside this particle panel that is built into Blender!

The add-on interface for Weather FX allows users to add rain, snow, and hail particles to the scene without difficulty. With its assets and a simple user menu interface, it offers the capability to include various weather particle systems, each with 3D weather-related assets! The WeatherFX extension for Blender 3D is an excellent tool to add regular weather effects that add an artistic touch to your renderings! It is now possible to incorporate weather effects into your live-action films as well as 3D artwork in a matter of only a few minutes!
