What is Traveler booking?

"Traveler booking" is a term that could refer to the process or system of booking travel-related services for individuals who are planning a trip. This typically involves making reservations for flights, accommodations (such as hotels or vacation rentals), transportation (like car rentals or transfers), and other travel-related services.

There are various platforms and agencies that provide traveler booking services, both online and offline. Online travel agencies (OTAs), such as Expedia, Booking.com, or Travelocity, allow travelers to book multiple components of their trip in one place. Additionally, airlines, hotels, and other service providers often have their own booking systems on their respective websites.
