This huge sound library was developed using carefully sampled and processed sources, then transformed using sophisticated synthesizers: organic textures such as command center ambients, background machine and interior sounds, explosions, and debris alarms, beeps, alarms, and interfacing sounds as well as alien mothership textures, and more.

This sample library is available to you in high resolution it is also licensed royalty-free. You can therefore utilize it in commercial work at no additional cost.

Ginno Legaspi review - SoundBytes Magazine:

The second review of the Bluezone library for Bluezone is an audio sample pack that's not from the earth. District 10, Mothership Sound Effects is an extensive collection of 178 intricate sci-fi sound effects made by sampling sources and twisting them using a variety of methods of synthesis. It is the result of a library that has high-quality natural textures and futuristic ambients static machine sounds, spaceship whirring, diverse blasts, and debris FX.

The samples are all in WAV format of 24/96 kHz with a download size of 1.3 gigabytes. The music is designed for games films, TV background music, trailers, and trailers. It's wonderful to find Bluezone still creating high-quality cinematic music even after all these years. The folders I like the most in this pack are Alien Organic Texture, Reactor Rumble, and Mothership Texture as these have some of the finest effects I've ever heard. Take a look as this is an original collection of samples that you will love.
