CSI ETABS:

ETABS is a cutting-edge software package designed for the structural analysis and design of buildings, leveraging the proven SAPFire Analysis Engine for optimized performance. It features a unified user interface that allows for seamless modeling, analysis, design, and reporting without limits on model windows or data views. The software includes interactive database editing for efficient model development and supports the design of various structural elements, including steel and concrete frames, shear walls, and composite materials, adhering to a wide array of US and international design codes.
