Articulated Sounds – 100 Fountains:

Fountains are a symbol of the struggle between humans against the forces of nature in defying gravity and changing the landscape.

"100 FOUNTAINS" is a collection of 100 sound files with high-quality stereo recordings of different fountains in dimensions, types, and views (including fifteen hydrophone recordings) that were recorded over the course of one year.

While fountains played an important part throughout history due to their function of providing water, they still serve as a major component of the natural landscape of towns and cities, despite straying from their original purpose. The sound they produce soothes the soul and adds to the contemporary soundscape by obscuring the annoyances of noise. They are living thing that brings people together. The collection of sounds on offer is a tribute to these "super-natural" human constructions, in an effort to convey the diverse musical palette.
