WireframeSketcher is a wireframing tool manufactured by Peter Severin and premiered in November 2008. WireframeSketcher application is a part of Eclipse Foundation. It's used for creating wireframes, mockups, and prototypes for desktop, mobile, and web applications. It helps the designer to make screens by organizing pre-built widgets with a drag-and-drop WYSIWYG editor and organize screens into interactive storyboards. The program is offered in a desktop version in addition to a plug for any Eclipse IDE for example Flash Builder, ColdFusion Builder, Aptana, MyEclipse, and Zend Studio. WireframeSketcher is a general-purpose application, but also, it gives technical widget libraries such as Android, iOS along with Windows Phone.
