Type Sync Pro – Realistic Writing Tool VH-43443401: I'm a natural motion and graphic designer and naturally drawn to visuals. One day, I decided to remove the sound of a mouse click from my video recording. It's just a click. However, it's more than simply one click. I discovered that it's information. It tells you that it's happening. So pay attention!

Typing on the keyboard has been a standard; everyone owns at least one clip in which they're using the effect. However, it's missing one thing that's missing - the click. That minimal feature reminds you to be attentive and pay attention!

Write your mind!

The ear is guided, as well as the eye and brain

- Sound - create synchronized sound effects for each keystroke
- Highlight Not all words are created equally. Therefore, highlight it!
- Rewrite and stop - we do not think or speak in a monotone way; we almost play in your writing
- Emojis in texts would undoubtedly be great. I would think so, wouldn't it?
- Different ways of highlighting words, such as different font families and font sizes
- Perhaps change the speed of writing for specific words
- Support for right-to-left languages
- I'm thinking of a VS Code color scheme (for those of you who program)
- Now, highlights are visible while writing takes place, but what happens when the writing is done to be out
- A visual preview of the highlight within the interface
- The text should be placed in speech bubbles
