The Blender Market – Human Generator would highlight that there are specific AMD Graphics Cards used in certain Mac computers causing crashes in Blender when particle systems are employed or imported, which affects the performance of the Human Generator (HG) add-on.

How to apply the degree of difference in body proportions and clothing changes in project design in Blender?

You can use "Blender Market – Human Generator" to design your project.

While HG supports Blender users and offers refunds for this issue, it is currently exclusive to Blender and not compatible with other 3D software. Notably, HG utilizes particle hair, but compatibility outside Blender requires support for such features. Additionally, minor clothing issues may arise due to body proportion variances, which can be rectified through manual adjustments.
