What is script font?

A script font is a type of typeface that mimics handwriting or calligraphy. It is characterized by fluid and connected strokes, often emulating the cursive writing style. Script fonts can convey a sense of elegance, creativity, and a personal touch, making them popular choices for various design applications.

There are different styles of script fonts, ranging from formal and classic to casual and playful. Some script fonts imitate specific calligraphic styles, while others may have a more contemporary or stylized appearance.

Script fonts are commonly used in a variety of design projects, including invitations, greeting cards, logos, wedding stationery, and more. They add a distinctive and often sophisticated aesthetic to the text, enhancing the overall visual appeal.
