Blender 3D. Give a face to your character with sculpt mode.: Making characters using a blender can be a challenge. Using sculpt mode to give your character a recognizable appearance and shape could be even more difficult. I could not figure it out for a while. Each time, I needed to create a face for my character or employ a sculpt mode to create a realistic body shape. Learning how to use sculpt mode can be complex, and many of you may be unable to understand the best way to use it now. This is why I'm putting together this course. Some of you may be having trouble with the sculpting process, as I did, and if that's the case, I'm here to assist.

This class is designed as an opportunity for those who use a blender and are trying to learn how to utilize sculpt mode. Also, I know how to create characters with faces and proper body shapes.

In this course, I will show you how to enhance the form of your character's bodies using the sculpt mode and how to make your characters look more attractive using a sculpting mode. This class is designed especially for beginners.

To be clear about one thing. The class isn't entire, from the start-to-finish procedure of creating a character using a blender. The class will not teach you how to create the body of your character, rig your character, or even create texture or give your character a creepy look. All of those are comprehensible subject that merits separate classes. I will create classes on these subjects soon, so be on the lookout. While you wait, feel free to test the skills I'll show you during this course or take a look at my previous class. You can create any character you like using the skin modifier in Blender 3D. After the class, you can create any character you like within minutes.

Enjoy this class and apply the knowledge I can impart to you.
